EQUITY MAY MERGE WITH FARM BUREAU

State Officers Trying to Consolidate Two Farmer Organizations.

Madison.—Plans are under way for a consolidation of the Wisconsin union of the American society of Equity and the Wisconsin branch of the American Farm Bureau federation. The combined membership of these organizations is 50,000. The Equity having a membership of 40,000 and the farm bureau about 10,000.

Commissioner Edward Nordman of the market bureau has been active in helping plans for the consolidation, and L. P. Foster, assistant marketing commissioner, has pushed the movement.

Increased effectiveness and efficiency for co-operative marketing is the primary purpose, it is stated. The Equity society is willing to give up its name, while the farm bureau will in turn accept the principles of the Equity. Leaders in the movement confidently expect that a consolidated society will have a membership of 150,000 in a few years.

Final action will be taken when both societies hold their conventions. The Equity Society will hold its convention in Milwaukee on Oct. 15.

BELIEVE CURE FOR LEPROSY DISCOVERED

Honolulu, T. H.—Apparent success in the treatment of chronic leprosy with chaulmoogra oil has led to an announcement that the work will be extended to the Kalaupapa, T. I. leper settlement.

Thirty-six patients, recently treated at the receiving station here, have been paroled, the doctors believing them cured of the heretofore supposedly incurable disease. Under the terms of their parole they will be kept under close observation for one year.

At the Kalaupapa settlement 50 patients will be selected to receive the treatment first and eventually it will be extended until the remaining 50 lepers in the colony have been treated.

Dr. A. L. Dean of the University of Hawaii assisted by Drs. J. T. McDonald and H. T. Hollman prepared the formula for the chaulmoogra treatment.

PRISONERS FLEE JAIL IN OSHKOSH

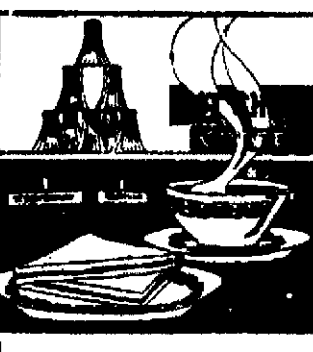

Two Young Men Attack Aged Jailer and Make Their Escape.

Oshkosh.—By making an unexpected and vicious attack upon Jailer Robert Peterson, two prisoners, Stanley Guenther and Frank Paulus, made their escape from the Winnebago county jail here late Monday afternoon. Peterson was severely choked and mauled and his head was cut when he was knocked down and fell to the cement floor. He put up a fight but being sixty-four years of age, while Guenther is 20 and Paulus 17, had little chance. The men ran into the yard of an industrial plant near the jail and disappeared. An all night search failed to reveal their whereabouts. Guenther was arrested at St. Albans, Wis., near Eagle River, and was to have his preliminary examination in municipal court tomorrow on a charge of burglarizing the summer cottage of Fred Athearn at Butte Des Morts, Oct. 5, 1919. Paulus was to be brought into court today charged with stealing a $65 bicycle in this city. He was trying to sell it in Fond du Lac when arrested. The attack on the jailer was made when he unlocked the jail doors to admit a prisoner who is serving a term at outside labor for non-support. The sheriff, Peter Carlson, was away at the time being at Chippewa Falls in quest of men believed to have had a hand in the robbery of the Exchange Bank of Oshkosh and the shooting of Assistant Cashier Glantz.

RED ARMY HEMMED IN BY WRANGLER'S TROOPS

Copenhagen — General Wrangel's anti-bolshevik forces have practically isolated the soviet armies in the Caucasus, according to a Helsingfors dispatch to the Berlingske Tidende.

The message said the Wrangel troops had broken the bolshevik front between Voronjochek and Tzarisan. The former is on the river Don, only 275 miles south of Moscow, and the latter is on the Volga, 300 miles southwest of Voronjochek. The Don forms the natural line of defense between the two cities. If Wrangel's men have pushed across the Don they have cut all but one line of railway connecting the Caucasus with the main part of Russia.

AUTHOR OF DRY LAW TO MAKE CONGRESS RACE

By United Press Leased Wire

St. Paul.—A special committee to conduct the campaign for the election of Rep. Andrew J. Volstead to congress from the seventh district, was named today at a meeting of the republican state central committee executives.

The committee will place Volstead's name on the ballot and arrange details of his campaign.

Volstead lost the republican nomination to O. J. Kvale at the primary, but Kvale was disqualified when found guilty of violation of the corrupt practices act. The supreme court declared a vacancy on the ticket.

DRY AGENTS "VISIT" LA CROSSE SALOONS

La Crosse, Wis.—Federal prohibition agents raided five saloons in the downtown district on the last day of the La Crosse Interstate fair and seized forty gallons of moonshine and whiskey, it is alleged. In Lewis Olson's saloon, it is claimed, twenty gallons of moonshine was found. Louis Wodzinski near by was selling over the bar drinks from a bottle labeled "Wine of Pepsin" and said to be sherry wine, containing a trace of peppermint. Charles Naebuhr, L. Schmitz and N. Schmitz are proprietors of the other three saloons entered by the prohibition agents. The five men whose places were raided will be arraigned before a United States court commission here.

A PLAN TO FORCE DOWN THE PRICE OF MEAT BY DOUBLING OUR SALES

We are the largest retailers of meats in the Fox River Valley. Because of the mammoth volume of our sales, we have sold, are selling and will continue to sell superior grade meat at the least cost. Where the average butcher sells one pound of meat, we sell fifty pounds. Naturally we can afford to operate on the minimum margin of profit.

In co-operation with the large packers and wholesalers who supply us, we have worked out a plan which enables us to lower our already low prices.

The plan is simply this: Increase the volume of sales; sell two pounds for every pound we have sold before.

Every week we will feature certain meats upon which special concessions and low prices have been offered us if we double the volume of our sales. We know that economical housewives will welcome the opportunity to co-operate with us.

Every item listed below is guaranteed FRESH, PRIME and of the CHOICEST QUALITY. Quality is never sacrificed to price, but prices are always lower at our markets.

IND MUCH LOOT IN BANDIT'S LUGGAGE

Probable That Several Recent Robberies Will Be Cleared Up Soon.

Evidence, which the police believe may clear up a number of recent robberies in central Wisconsin, has been found in the baggage of the three men and three women who were arrested at Chippewa Falls this week, in connection with the attempted looting of the Oshkosh Exchange bank last Friday.

Chief George T. Prim of the local apartment tried to connect the sextette with a series of forgeries in this city but thus far their connection has not been proven.

Allan Thuermer, whose car was found at Oshkosh shortly after the robbery, said he can almost positively identify two of the arrested men as the men who passed him in Green Bay shortly before his car was stolen September 16.

Bonds, issued by Swift & Co. of Chicago, to the value of $8,500, were found in a suitcase belonging to the sextet. Serial numbers of these bonds have been sent to the Swift company for an effort to ascertain whether they are among those secured in a recent robbery at Chicago.

Several trunks and suitcases seized at Chippewa Falls contained luxurious clothing and valuable jewelry, the total value of which is estimated at nearly $5,000. Included in the list are three alpine coats, silk dresses and lingerie, shoes, perfume, and several eggs, from which settings have been moved.

Efforts thus far to identify the sextet or connect them with robberies have been fruitless, but authorities are confident of the cogency of the contents.

of the trunks as justification for the belief that such a theory is the most plausible one.

The three men were held in $25,000 bail when they were arraigned in Oshkosh on Wednesday, and the three women under $10,000 bail.

The preliminary hearing was set for Oct. 8 and they were remanded to the Winnebago county jail.

Bail for each of the men was set at $25,000, and for the women $10,000.

There are three counts in the arraignment against the men. One is for robbing the bank, the other two for the shooting of Glaz, assistant cashier.

The women are held as accessories before the fact.

W. H. MORSE, of Seattle, Wash., who says he can now turn out as much work as he could thirty years ago, in spite of his age. Gives Tanlac credit for his splendid health.

"I am in my eighty-fifth year, but since taking Tanlac I am as hale and hearty as I ever was and can do as much work as I could thirty years ago," declared W. H. Morse, of 32 Blaine St., Seattle, Wash. Although in his eighty-fifth year, Mr. Morse is still daily to be found engaged in hard work down at the Ames Shipyard and is remarkably well preserved for his years.

"Last spring I had an attack of the flu that left me in a very badly run-down condition and so weak that I could hardly get around. For a long while I had a very bad cold that I couldn't shake off and my bronchial tubes were so choked up that I was coughing all the time. I had no appetite and in fact ate so little that I was steadily losing weight. I couldn't sleep at nights and became very much worried about my condition, because I couldn't find anything to straighten me up and restore my lost strength."

"I saw by the papers what fine work Tanlac was doing for other folks, so I got some for myself. It did me good right from the start, for in a very short while my cough left me, and I was eating fine and sure did enjoy every mouthful. I slept better at nights and was soon feeling much better in every way. I have gained seven pounds in weight and am so much stronger that I can turn out about as much work as most any other man in spite of my years. Tanlac certainly must be a great medicine to put me on my feet like it has and I'm glad of the chance to tell everybody about it."

Tanlac is sold in Appleton by John F. Voigt, F. O. Brown, Sholton, Dr. J. M. Sattler, Bear Creek; H. E. Abend, Dale.

MARKETING VS. SPECULATION.

Despite the handicaps with which farmers now contend in marketing their products Secretary of the Treasury Houston is right in his opposition to extensions of bank credit which would permit large agricultural interests to hold their crops for higher prices. The nation has had a sample of such methods in recent southern cotton pools, which have kept cotton out of trade channels and greatly augmented the rapid rise in price of cotton goods in sympathy with the general trend of the last three years.

What is needed by the farmers, as The Post-Crescent many times has argued, is not a chance to speculate but more economical marketing systems by which they may receive more for their produce while the consumers pay less. The plan Secretary Houston opposes might yield certain classes of growers more money but would not benefit the average farmer at all, and it is the average farmer with which the country is concerned.

That kind of farmer may raise only ten acres of wheat, potatoes, beans or other crops. But there are some 5,000 of him in Outagamie county alone and thus multiplied he is a formidable factor in food production. Individually he has no need to borrow several thousand dollars to hold a wheat crop or a potato crop, for his crops are small. If he owns his farm his credit is good at the country store and for reasonable amounts at the country bank. His dairy and poultry sales keep him supplied with current expense money and, as a matter of fact, he can borrow enough under present conditions to enable him to hold his crops a while if he desires to. If he were receiving two-thirds of what the consumer pays for food, instead of only one-third, he would be satisfied.

The men who want large lines of credit from banks in order to enable them to hold their crops for high prices are those who have a thousand or more acres of wheat or cotton. They have enough of their commodities to qualify them for speculators. An agricultural speculator is no different from any other speculator as far as acts and results are concerned. To enable him to hold his crops and force unreasonable prices for them would not aid agriculture in general in the least, and that is the most vital phase of the food problem.

WHILE THERE IS LIFE.

Civilization is about 6,000 years old and the world a good many millions of years, but nature constantly furnishes her children brand new thrills. The newest is the remarkable adventure of a young army officer, Lieut. A. G. Hamilton, who ascended in an airplane to a height of 20,900 feet with a parachute with which to float down to earth only to find after he had launched himself that the parachute was broken. Yet he saved himself by coolness and ingenuity.

Three miles above the earth, shooting toward it with all the speed that gravity puts into an unsupported body heavier than air! But the young army officer realized that because of the distance he had a chance for life. For half a mile he shot downward, endeavoring to make the broken mechanism function. Finally he succeeded to a degree that slowed up his fall. As he neared the earth he climbed into the rigging of the parachute and operated its top airplane fashion, guiding it over a strip of woods, where its rope caught in a treetop and enabled him to descend without a scratch.

A person never is dead until he or she really is dead. A more hopeless situation than that in which Lieutenant Hamilton found himself when he hopped off the plane scarcely can be imagined. Yet he kept his nerve and pulled himself out safely.

WOMEN FIND A WAY.

A number of prominent members of an Evanston women's club have issued an appeal to Republican women voters who opposed Mayor Thompson of "sixth German city fame" in the recent Illinois primary to continue their war on the "Illinois Tammany" by working for the Democratic county and state tickets in the coming elections.

"You are asked to oppose only those whom you already have opposed," the letter says, "and you will be in no way committed to the Democratic party except for that specific purpose. Your own preferred candidates now are eliminated from the final contest and their work in opposing Thompsonism is being carried forward by the Democratic candidates. If you elect an honest, capable Democrat in place of any unworthy candidate you notify your party leaders that women's demands for honest and able candidates must be heeded."

There is a lot of good advice to men voters as well as to women in that manifesto. The best element of Illinois Republicans did not oppose Mayor Thompson and his slate on political grounds but because of his record in office. Consequently there is no reason for them to support them now on political grounds. They will have nothing to do with shaping the next national administration even if Republicans win a landslide victory and if they were a menace to good government when running for nomination, as was charged by Republicans who took up the gauntlet against them, they are no less a menace now.

Similar situations, though usually less flagrant, often come up in city and state politics in all parts of the country and in both political parties. If New York's best class of Democrats would vote against Tammany in all state, county and city elections Tammany soon would die. Such action would not weaken the New York Democracy for national campaigns. Rather it might strengthen it by drawing independent voters who now decline to vote for anybody with the Tiger stripes.

We need political parties but we do not need unworthy candidates for office. If the honest-minded voters of both parties would combine to defeat bad candidates on either ticket both old parties would be pretty well purified of the undesirable within a few years.

The virtuoso swayed his magic wand
And heaven's own harp dripped honey from above
And soft-eyed, sweet-lipped maidens, fair as fond,
Sang of the passions and the pains of love.

And then the mountains leaved with the plain
And God was old and deaf and did not care;
The last of all the saints was basely slain
And Satan moved his leering lips in prayer.

Again the bow danced lightly on the strings
And all the air was filled with fairy song,
And Cupid tickled Psyche with his wings
And Pan gushed into laughter, low and long.

And all the while, close at my side there sat
A realist who ventured to explain—

DOES FASTING KILL OR CURE? NO. 2

An absolute fast for forty-eight hours, that is abstaining from food but not water, is without danger for any adult who is able to be up and about. For every adult who is overweight even by a few pounds such a fast or some near approach thereto is likely to prove surprisingly helpful in several ways, clearing the intellect and rendering mental application more acute, relieving many seemingly minor disturbances of the digestive and other functions, and bringing that sense of satisfaction and increased self-confidence which comes with self-discipline.

The fear of starvation, so instinctive in the human mind, renders such a fast difficult or impossible in many instances in which it is the remedy most needed. Therefore the physician is frequently compelled to prescribe a placebo. He orders all ordinary food withheld and allows nothing but, say, a tablespoonful or two of some supposedly concentrated extract of beef or some other quasi-medicinal liquid essence every four hours, thereby practically gaining the effect of a bona fide fast. Or perhaps he compromises still further by prescribing a diet restricted exclusively to six ounces of skimmed milk sipped leisurely every four hours. This diet, the word diet suggests (eats) he glories with the title of Karl regimen.

Experience with fasting in the treatment of various disease conditions has shown that there is no risk involved in repeated short fasts for instance for obesity, although prolonged fasting does involve a certain risk of Addison's disease after several days. Addison is a form of poisoning or auto-intoxication by incompletely oxidized tissue substances of an acid character. Brief fasts of forty-eight hours are without danger.

No one can say precisely how many days an individual may live without any food, nor precisely what proportion of the body weight may be lost by starvation without the loss of life, because several variable factors are concerned. Considerable difference in the result of prolonged deprivation of food is made by (1) the temperature of the atmosphere, exposure to cold using up body energy rapidly; (2) the individual's mental condition, anxiety or fear having a depressing influence and hastening death; (3) the amount of fat stored in the individual's body to begin with, this stored fat being burned up in starvation in lieu of food; (4) the age of the individual, children enduring deprivation of food poorly, aged persons enduring it well; (5) the availability of plenty to drink; (6) the individual's physical activity, a fast being more readily borne by one at rest than by one who takes exercise or does work.

Since the Great War our knowledge of the harmful effects of deprivation of food on the health is more nearly complete. Better than ever before we understand why fasting should not be indiscriminately employed as the panacea some faddists imagine it to be.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Physical Training

I have just joined a gym class at the Y, and will work for an hour in the gym each week. Is that sufficient physical training? I am a married woman 28 years old with two children. (Mrs. B. F. E.)

ANSWER.—Well, it is better than physical ignorance, but it means rather less than 5 minutes physical education daily, which might seem sufficient to the Board of Education or to a public school teacher who considers all education below the eyebrows a bore. An hour twice a week, or better 15 or 20 minutes exercise every day would be more desirable. You probably do not limit your reading or other self-improvement to an hour a week. Why discriminate against your body from the eyebrows down?

Roll Jordan, Roll

In your column some days ago Grandma tells of rolling her daily somersaults. She is only 51. Small blame to a young thing like that. I will be 70 in July. Am I a somersaulter? Ask the dear ones living in the flat below. They merely remark about the gentle murmur heard from time to time. As one of my names is Jordan I sing: "Roll, Jordan, Roll," and go to it. Can you beat it? (E. J. W.) New York.

ANSWER.—Seventy, seventy, do I hear seventy-five?

Outclassed

Thanks to your morning rolls, I am keeping fit at 53. I am merely a mother, not yet a grandmother (Mrs. B. L.) Michigan.

ANSWER.—Michigan is about 17 years slow. New York seems to have the lead in this rolling contest. I'll say this of Michigan, though. She is a fair contestant, in that she signs her full name and address, unlike some folks back East.

Presidential Campaigns

By Frederic J. Hasdin

X. The Lincoln-Douglas-Breckinridge-Bell Campaign

Washington, D. C.—Much of the practical politics of the presidential campaign of 1860 has been buried beneath the glory of the Lincoln administration and the horrors of the Civil War. The political result of that campaign was the promotion of the newly-born Republican party to power, the second political revolution of American history.

For the first twelve years of government under the Constitution the Federalists were in power. With the election of Thomas Jefferson an actual revolution was accomplished, and the power of government was given to the Democratic party. The Democrats ruled for sixty years. Twice during that time the Whigs elected a President, but there was no practical interruption of Democratic ascendancy. With the election of Lincoln, the Republican party assumed the reins of power and held them forty-eight years. The two Cleveland administrations checked, but did not stay the Republican march.

The first Lincoln campaign was marked by practical politics. Mr. Lincoln did not make an active campaign. The Republicans contended themselves with continued denunciations of "border ruffianism." Many of them were somewhat ashamed of their candidate, and none of them, outside of Illinois, brought the personal equation into the discussion.

The fight raged in its greatest bitterness between the two Democratic candidates, Stephen A. Douglas and John C. Breckinridge. John Bell led the Constitutional Union forces as the representative of extreme conservatism, but, like Lincoln, he took no individual part in the campaign.

A Famous Speaking Tour

Douglas, the "Little Giant of Democracy" stumped the country from New England to Louisiana. A wonderful orator, earnest as he was in his efforts to accomplish the salvation of the Union and believing that the only way to save it was his way, he tried never to lose before and perhaps will never know again such a mastery campaign. But it was all in vain. He had broken with the South and with Buchanan, and not logic nor reason nor oratory had power to heal wounds so deep.

Douglas was indirectly responsible for the nomination of Lincoln. Two years before, in 1858, Lincoln had opposed Douglas for re-election to the Senate. Their joint debates in that year still live in the memories of men, and will live on the pages of history for all time. Douglas was the better speaker, and he won the election for Senator. But Lincoln had pressed him close and had had the eyes of the whole country upon him.

It was against the advice of every friend he had that Lincoln bore down upon Douglas and asked him a series of questions involving slavery in the territories. One question was: "Can a territorial legislature exclude slavery if it sees fit?" If Douglas had answered that question in the negative, Lincoln would have been elected Senator in 1858 and might never have been President. But Douglas said "Yes." That reply carried him back to the United States Senate, caused Horace Greeley seriously to propose Douglas for the Republican nomination for President in 1860, broke the Democratic party in twain and elected Lincoln President.

The Status of Slavery

Slavery in the territories was the whole issue, as it had been more or less for a half century. It was Thomas Jefferson, a Virginia slaveholder, who wrote into the Northwest Territory Bill provision that that territory should be forever free of slavery. The question was compromised in 1820 and in 1850 by Henry Clay. The Wilmot Proviso, using the exact language of Thomas Jefferson, kept slavery off the Pacific Coast. In 1854, by act of Stephen A. Douglas himself, assisted by Franklin Pierce, the Missouri Compromise of 1820 was repealed and the whole question of slavery extension reopened.

The South held that the territories were Federal and belonged as much to the Slave States as to the free, and that, until they became states, the Federal Constitution was their only law. The Constitution permitted slavery by its silence, and this theory would make them slave territory. The North held that Congress could legislate slavery out of a territory, but could not legislate it in—that the territories must be free. Douglas took the middle ground, a position which Clay would have supported, and declared in favor of "popular sovereignty"—that is, of permitting the people of a territory to decide the slavery question for themselves.

The Democratic National Convention met at Charleston that year. The fight on the platform was long and bitter, and when it was seen that Douglas controlled the convention and the Douglas platform would be adopted, the majority of the southern state delegates withdrew from the convention. The regular convention then adjourned to meet in Baltimore. The bolters adjourned to meet in Richmond. The Richmond convention met on time, but immediately adjourned to another day to await the action of the Baltimore meeting.

The "regular" convention assembled in Baltimore and the old fight broke out afresh. Caleb Cushing of Massachusetts, who was president of the convention, finally became so disgusted with the Douglas followers that he resigned his chair, and led another bolt from the convention. The remnant of the "regular" convention then proceeded to nominate Stephen A. Douglas for President and Benjamin Fitzpatrick of Alabama for Vice President. Fitzpatrick declined, and the second place was given to Herschel V. Johnson of Georgia. The Caleb Cushing bolters in Baltimore nominated John C. Breckinridge, then Vice President of the United States, for President, and Joseph Lane of Oregon for Vice President. The waiting "secedors" at Richmond immediately ratified the nominations of Breckinridge and Lane.

Lincoln a Machine Candidate

Lincoln was nominated at Chicago by a group of shrewd politicians who deliberately overthrew the will of the majority of the party in the interests of expediency. William H. Seward was the great leader of Republicanism, and when the delegates met at Chicago, two-thirds of them were for Seward. But Seward as Governor of New York had been too closely associated with the Roman Catholics in politics. The Know-Nothing vote was still large and had to be reckoned with, especially in Pennsylvania and Indiana. Andrew G. Curtin and Henry S. Lane, Republican nominees for governor in Pennsylvania and Indiana, respectively, put up the scheme to defeat Seward. They knew his Catholic affiliations would defeat him in their states and would probably defeat them also.

But with all the strenuous opposition and scheming, Seward probably would have won if his managers had not foolishly organized a great street parade in his behalf. That took all the Seward boomers on the streets. While they were marching, the Lincoln managers packed the Wigwam galleries with Illinois folks who were instructed to yell for "Abe." They yelled all right, and by this cheap political method of organizing a clique, Abraham Lincoln was nominated for President.

The Constitutional Union party was the last attempt made to gather the "old line Whigs" into a political organization. Its candidates, John Bell of Tennessee and Edward Everett of Massachusetts received more than three times as many electoral votes as the Douglas ticket and more than half as many as the Breckinridge ticket.

Lincoln received a great majority of electoral votes over all his opponents, but he was greatly in the minority in the popular vote. The possibilities of the electoral system of choosing a President were keenly illustrated in the result. Lincoln received 180 electoral votes and 1,856,352 popular votes. Douglas was next in the popular vote with 1,215,157, but he got only 12 electoral votes. Lincoln received an electoral vote for every 10,000 popular votes, while Douglas had more than 100,000 popular votes for each electoral vote. Breckinridge had 847,514 popular votes, but little more than half of Douglas', yet he received 72 electoral votes, six times as many as Douglas! Bell, with less than half of Douglas' popular vote received 39 electoral votes to Douglas' twelve. Douglas, running next to Lincoln, carried only one state, Missouri, although he received three of the seven votes of New Jersey and three of the thirty votes of Pennsylvania.

The election of Lincoln had been expected early in the campaign on account of the Democratic split, and threats of secession were borne on every wind from the South, and retaliatory threats of war were wafted back on every northern breeze. The great crisis was at hand and Lincoln was the man to meet it.

"She just had to drag her husband to church"

That was when Sunday meant hard boiled bosoms and stiff starched cuffs.

Now, that the dressiest shirts are soft at chest and wrist there are more hymns in the pews and the sermons seem shorter.

If you go to church—and you should—we want you to see our new Eagle Shirts for Fall—a great collection.

If you are staying away—and you shouldn't—just accept the above invitation and there'll be an increase in the collection box at your church next Sunday.

In a speech at the chapel exercises Friday morning, McChesney said that although Wisconsin University had 7,000 students to 1,000 Lawrence students, that didn't prove the Badger team to be any better. He said the teams were made up of human beings just the same. McChesney urged the student body to support the foot ball men in every way, by attending the games, rooting, seeing the fellows off at the station and also by greeting them upon their return. He said the men were not going down to Madison Saturday expecting to get beat, but with the determination of going into the game to win.

INSTRUCTORS TO HOLD CONFERENCE

Vocational School Teachers of Northeastern Wisconsin Here in October.

About 100 vocational school directors and teachers from the northeastern part of Wisconsin are expected to attend the first annual conference here October 14, 15 and 16. Methods of instruction and problems of vocational schools will be discussed by able speakers and leaders. W. S. Ford, director of the Appleton Vocational school, is in charge of the local arrangements.

The conference is conducted by the state board of vocational education. The state has been divided into three sections, with simultaneous conferences at Appleton, Milwaukee and Eau Claire. Heretofore only the directors have been in conference, and a vocational section has been conducted in connection with state teachers' conventions, but the new plan of bringing both directors and instructors together is to be tried this year.

The program is to open with a banquet at the Appleton hotel on Thursday evening, at which R. E. Cooley, Milwaukee, director of the school for vocational education there, is to be the speaker. The remainder of the program has not been announced, but will be received in a few days by Mr. Ford. E. E. Gunn, Madison, supervisor of the northeastern district, is in charge of the conference arrangements. Most of the sessions will probably be held at the vocational school.

GIANTS TO PLAY IN FONDY SATURDAY

Colored Team Will Be Attraction in Closing Game of the Season.

The Union Giants, scheduled to play the Brandt team in what is probably the last baseball game of the season at Brandt park Sunday afternoon, will meet the Ruepings at Fond du Lac on Saturday, according to word received here. The club is making an extensive tour in this part of the state, it was said.

Hank Schultz, Brandt's spit ball artist, has pitched several games against the famous colored team and knows the weaknesses of their batters. He is determined that the 1920 season shall wind up with a victory.

Appleton's club has been the class of the league in the last two months. Every team in the circuit has fallen before it and it worked its way solidly into second place in the league. If the club that finished the season had been in the field from the start Appleton would now be playing Waukegan for the championship. Instead of depending on Oshkosh to uphold the honor of the Fox River Valley.

Preparations are already being made for the 1921 season. Kaukauna is the first club to get started on the new work. The Union Bag and Paper company is preparing to take over the club and put out a team which will make a lively season.

Negotiations will be started in the near future to include Green Bay and Fond du Lac in the league next year. Fond du Lac has the strong Rueping and Rex teams, either one of which could hold their own in the new circuit. Green Bay also has two or three strong teams which are drawing big crowds.

FRANK HONORED BY WISCONSIN BAR

Attorney J. P. Frank, Appleton, was elected vice president for the tenth judicial circuit at the annual convention of the Wisconsin State Bar association in Milwaukee Thursday. Twenty vice presidents were elected, one for each judicial circuit. Among the men honored were Roy P. Wilcox, Eau Claire; Max Sells, Florence, and John McMullen, Chilton.

John Thompson, Green Bay, was elected president of the association. Gilson G. Glasier of Madison, is secretary and treasurer.

The association decided to have a study made of the subject of establishing courts of conciliation for settlement of disputes that otherwise would develop into expensive, useless and harmful contentions at law.

This subject was presented to the association first at the Green Bay convention a year ago by the late Chief Justice J. B. Winslow, who called attention to the provision in the Wisconsin constitution calling for establishment of such tribunals.

WIND UP PRACTICE FOR BADGER GAME

Lawrence Gridders Hold Last Scrimmage Before Starting for Madison.

Lawrence gridders Thursday put in their last scrimmage before the game with the University of Wisconsin at Madison Saturday when the first team played on the defensive while the scrubs carried the ball. The offensive work was tried out Wednesday afternoon when the regulars plunged thru the scrubs line at will, making long gains with the greatest ease, despite the fact that the scrub team is nearly as heavy as the regular outfit. The team showed up well on defensive Thursday, stopping the scrub backfield in good style. The work was not as finished as on Wednesday night, however.

University of Wisconsin coaches are looking for a fierce struggle when the teams clash on Randall field Saturday afternoon. The Badgers do not fear the Blue and White but they are not over-confident.

Tomorrow's game will be the first real test for the Blue and White and will determine who are to play on the squad. The rough spots will be knocked off the men next week and then the team will be ready to begin the battle for state championship in real earnest.

INDIAN HURLERS OUTSHINE ROBINS

Cleveland's Stack Is More Brilliant, But Brooklyn Has More of 'Em.

(By Henry L. Farrell)
By United Press Licensed Wire
New York—Some of the best pitching arms in the major leagues will go into action in the coming world series.

Walter "Duster" Miles, the star southpaw of the Indians, probably will attract the most attention.

When Jim Bagby and Stan Coveleskie were battling under the heavy load of carrying a pennant contending club Manager Speaker picked up Miles from the Sacramento, Calif., club in a deal involving about $30,000.

Miles jumped in and won six straight games.

On top of this Miles has a score to settle with Brooklyn. He was "given the gate" by the Robins on his first trial in fast company.

Cleveland has a small but brilliant pitching staff; Brooklyn has a large and equally capable stable of hurlers. Cleveland has Bagby, Coveleskie, Miles and Caldwell with Morton and Uhle for relief; Brooklyn has Grimes, Pfeffer, Marmaux, Marquard and Smith with Cadore and Mitchell in reserve.

Speaker's weakness—the lack of left hand pitching which bothered him all season, will be another problem in the world's series although not so pronounced with young, husky Miles around. Eighteen of the 24 Dodgers bat from the right side of the plate. Seven of them are regulars including the big three, Myers, Johnston and Konetchy.

"Uncle Robby" has three good southpaws. Marquard, Sherry Smith and Mitchell, and it gives him a distinct advantage inasmuch as the Cleveland team is heavy in left hand batters. Twelve of the 22 Indians bat from the near side of the pan, seven of them are regulars, including Speaker, Gardner, Smith and Sewell.

Brooklyn has seven dependable pitchers to use against Cleveland's four—a case almost parallel to the Reds' advantage over the White Sox last year.

In defensive strength, the choice of the two staffs goes to Brooklyn on numbers. On the offense they are fairly evenly matched. Brooklyn having the slight advantage of .227 to .221.

Grimes and Bagby are the two leading pitchers on the opposing clubs. Grimes is a better hitter—one of the best hitting pitchers in the National league, with an average of .308, and Bagby is the best pitcher in the American league. He has won thirty games and lost eleven. Of this pair, Bagby gets the choice.

Stan Coveleskie and big Jeff Pfeffer are rated together. Pfeffer is a fast ball pitcher and strong when going well, but erratic. Coveleskie, a spitballer, is one of the smartest pitchers in the big league. He, like Bagby, has had a hard season, but is likewise in form. He, too, is superior.

Miles on his brilliant late season record, is a better pitcher than Al Marmaux. The main concern is about the ability of Miles to "carry eight."

Ray Caldwell and Rube Marquard are fairly evenly matched, with Caldwell favored slightly.

Sherry Smith is a better pitcher than the figures show. It is just getting back into form. Brooklyn then has Cadore, a hard hitting pitcher and Clarence Mitchell, the versatile southpaw pitcher, outfielder and first baseman.

Against them Speaker has Morton and Uhle, two "in-and-outers."

Cleveland perhaps has the more brilliant staff but it is numerically weak. What Robinson lacks in brilliancy, he makes up in numbers. He has a distinct advantage in his reserve strength.

HIGHS READY FOR WAUSAU SATURDAY

Coach Vincent Confident His Men Will Down Lumberjacks Tomorrow.

Appleton high school football team is all set for the first home game of the season Saturday afternoon when it stacks up against Wausau at Lawrence field. The Lumberjacks are said to have one of the best teams in recent years, giving promise of a grid battle worth going miles to see.

Coach Vincent has been working his men hard during the week to prepare them for this contest. The line is holding well and the back field is carrying the ball as well as it did any time last year when the team had an excellent chance for the state championship.

Several gruelling games have been scheduled for the season, all with a possible bearing on the state title. If Appleton can surmount the hazards in the early part of the season there is every probability that the state gon-falon will float over the local institution when the curtain wings down late in November.

An Oshkosh orchestra has been engaged to furnish music for the dancing party to be held in the high school gymnasium in honor of the visiting team Saturday evening.

CUT THIS OUT

OLD ENGLISH RECIPE FOR CATARRH, CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES

If you know of some one who is troubled with Catarrhal Deafness, head noises or ordinary catarrh cut out this formula and hand it to them and you may have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. In England scientists for a long time past have recognized that catarrh is a constitutional disease and necessarily requires constitutional treatment.

Sprays, inhalers and nose douches are liable to irritate the delicate air passages and force the disease into the middle ear which frequently means total deafness, or else the disease may be driven down the air passages towards the lungs which is equally as dangerous. The following formula which is used extensively in the dumb English climate is a constitutional treatment and should prove especially efficacious to sufferers here who live under more favorable climate conditions.

Secure from your druggist 1 ounce of Parmit (Double strength). Take this home and add to it 1/4 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar, stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day. This will often bring quick relief from distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and hearing improve as the inflammation in the eustachian tubes is reduced. Parmit used in this way acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system and has a tonic action that helps to obtain the desired results. The preparation is easy to make, costs little and is pleasant to take. Every person who has catarrh or head noises or is hard of hearing should give this treatment a trial. adv.

HARD TO GET FREE FROM STATE HOME

State Board of Control Only Authority Which Can Grant Re-hearings.

(Special to Post-Crescent)

Madison—That the State Board of Control is the only authority in the state which can grant a re-hearing for a patient once committed to the home for feeble-minded is the discovery made by District Attorney Orrin M. Larrabee, Chippewa county, and confirmed today in an opinion by the attorney general's department.

District Attorney Larrabee had formed such an opinion and asked for official determination of the question by the attorney general. In the opinion handed down today the attorney general calls attention to the fact that until Chapter 85 of the Laws of 1919 became effective applications for re-hearings on commitments for feeble-minded were made to the court, the same as with insane commitments. The new law, however, through an oversight, repealed the old measure and under the present statute the Board of Control alone has jurisdiction in the matter, the constitutional validity of the law being questioned.

Attorney General Blaine has called the attention of the Revisor of Statutes to the matter and it will doubtless be corrected at the next session of the legislature. In the meantime, however, no patient in the homes for feeble-minded can be released without express orders of the Board of Control.

In an opinion given to Assistant Secretary of State W. B. Naylor, the attorney general declared the statute is plain that the Secretary of State may revoke the license of a detective agency "for cause" and that when the license is revoked the detective or agency for which it had been issued, cannot operate in Wisconsin.

The question was raised in connection with a complaint which had been filed against the Pioneer Detective Bureau of Minneapolis. A hearing on the complaint has been held by the Secretary of State and a decision in the case is expected early next week.

The Minneapolis Bureau is said to have several hundred clients in Wisconsin and had filed a bond of $2,000 with the secretary of state when the license was issued, as provided by law. The attorney general holds that with the revocation of the license, if it is revoked for cause, the bond will be forfeited and that anyone who is "injured by willful, malicious or wrongful act" can recover damages against the bond. However, it was held doubtful if other clients, unless they had suffered injury under the statute, can recover.

STAGE BIG LEAGUE GAME AT PORTAGE

Pittsburg and St. Louis Teams to Be Drawing Card at County Fair.

Portage—Wisconsin's big roundup of 1920 fairs occurs at Portage next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, Oct. 6-7-8, and the Columbia county fair managers have placed $10,000 in special attractions featuring a series of three National league baseball games between the original Pittsburg Pirates and the St. Louis Cardinals. A game will be staged every afternoon at 3 o'clock on the new $1,500 canvas covered baseball diamond on the centerfield of the best half mile track in the state. Max Carey, Babe Adams, Wilbur Cooper and Walter Schmidt will be seen in the Pittsburg lineup in the Portage games and such stars as Schupp, Hornsby, Milton Stock and Pickles Dillhoeffer playing with St. Louis. Schmidt and Dillhoeffer formerly donned Milwaukee uniforms.

Besides the big baseball feature there will be speed events in the 212 class with Louis Winters, who won first at the Minneapolis and Aurora, D. fairs, competing against Oshkosh, Milwaukee, Madison and Janesville horses. Pace events in the 216 and 224 and free for all class are also to be staged. Sales of registered Holsteins and other blooded cattle and swine occur Thursday and Friday mornings, Oct. 7-8, under University of Wisconsin experts' supervision. Four brass bands including Al Sweet's Chicago Hussars, and the Baraboo Marine band will provide music. The city of Portage, where this big roundup fair is to be held next week, is the hub center of four trunk lines and points are expected from all parts of the state. Last year the same fair management staged, for the first time at Wisconsin fairs, big league baseball with Grover Alexander and the Chicago Cubs pleasing 20,000 fans and this year's events promise to far exceed last year's exhibition.

DISEASES OF LUNGS CLAIM MORE DEATHS

Dr. W. A. Evans Describes Progress of Battle Against Disease.

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Madison—With but one exception, every form of disease resulting from bacteriological action has been brought under control in great measure since the application of Koch's germ theory, declared Dr. W. A. Evans, noted health editor of the Chicago Tribune, in an address before Wisconsin health officers here yesterday afternoon. The one exception was the pneumonia-influenza epidemic, which he said is worse today in Chicago and everywhere in the country, than it was 50 years ago.

"The problem for the next 10 years," said the distinguished health editor, "is that of the control of infections of the respiratory tract. Their increase has resulted in a very marked shift in the seasonal distribution of death, and presumably therefore in the seasonal distribution of disease. In the years from twenty to forty years ago, the physician's busy time always was in summer, and he was idle in winter. This situation has changed about so that today our sickly season is winter."

Dr. Evans discussed the seasonal incidence of disease, illustrating how an increasing number of well known diseases are characteristic of certain climatic periods. Thus, he said, Pellagra is common to hot weather; typhoid is seasonal in varying degree in different parts of the country; infantile paralysis is a disease of hot weather; smallpox is a cold weather disease. Statistics and lantern slides were presented to prove that the death rates have declined remarkably in the last 70 years, from decade to decade. Two reasons were assigned for this: The application of the Pettenkofer theory that much of disease is the result of filth and dirt, which led to garbage and sewage disposal, pure water supplies, and community, household and individual cleanliness; and the Koch theory, developed since 1880, recognizing the germ character of many diseases. Since 1900 there has been no real decline in the death rate of the United States, and this fact he attributed to the increase in respiratory infections whose fatalities are twice those of 20 years ago.

"We are losing ground with relation to the pneumonia-influenza-bronchitis group of diseases," said Dr. Evans. "In the very years in which we have demonstrated our ability to bring under control all the other forms of bacterial diseases. What shall we do about it? For one thing, all health departments, nations, state and local, should concentrate on the control of the acute respiratory infections. Secondly, the health officers have a heavy task assigned them in the large amount of research work that is needed."

EXHUME BODY TO MAKE SURE OF IDENTIFICATION

Eau Claire, Wis.—Representatives of the two life insurance companies carrying insurance on the life of the late E. J. Sallstad, president of the Multitone Manufacturing company of this city, who recently burned to death when a cottage at Lake Nebagamon was destroyed by fire, expressed themselves as satisfied, after the remains buried in a local cemetery had been exhumed, that they were the remains of Mr. Sallstad. Only the charred bones were found after the fire and the insurance companies, carrying something like $65,000 life and corporation insurance on Mr. Sallstad, asked that the remains be exhumed for examination and inspection for the purpose of identification.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Glantz have returned to their home at Racine after visiting relatives here. Mrs. L. D. Segal and Mrs. Harry Richmond visited friends at Oshkosh Thursday.

WOULD MARKET POTATOES THROUGH GROWERS' BODY

Marinette—Agitation for 2,000 members in the Marinette county, Wis., Potato Growers' association, which has been kept alive by the Stephenson Agricultural school and County Agent M. E. Sibole, received a strong boost here. It was an order from L. L. Hunt, assistant county agent of Macopin county, Ill., farm bureau, for twenty carloads of Marinette county potatoes.

The county agent will use this letter in support of his solicitation for a larger body of growers in the association, pointing out that it is an example of direct marketing, of the co-operation between farm bureaus of the counties of the whole country.

He is satisfied that the entire crop of Marinette county can be sold directly in this way, which means cutting the middleman and giving the farmer a bigger proportion of the market price.

CHARGE ATTENDANT WITH SLAYING INSANE PATIENT

By United Press Leased Wire

Racine, Wis.—Henry Tyler of Menominee, Wis., attendant at the Racine county insane asylum, is in custody pending a post mortem examination of the body of Elijah Smith, an inmate who is believed to have been choked to death Thursday night. The sheriff claims that Tyler has admitted seizing Smith by the neck and pinning him into a chair, holding him for a few seconds. Five minutes later Smith was on the floor unconscious, dying shortly after.

Tyler denies choking the inmate. Smith was on the floor unconscious, 115 pounds while Tyler, who is 40 years of age, weighs 220 pounds.

ROHM MENTIONED AS EQUITY HEAD

May Be Possible Candidate for President at Coming State Meeting.

Madison—November 16 is the date fixed by the Wisconsin Union of the American Society of Equity for its annual state convention. The gathering will be held in the auditorium at Milwaukee.

J. N. Tittmore, president of the society three times, it is understood will not run for re-election. J. Fred Larson, Fred Hertfeld and Otto Rohm, member of the executive board and strong Tittmore men, have been mentioned as possible candidates.

Considerable sentiment has been manifested in favor of Joseph Houston, secretary-treasurer, for the office.

The convention this year is not expected to furnish the battle scenes that were staged last year when the Nonpartisan league, led by J. Weller Long, attempted to oust Tittmore and was beaten by a close margin.

Tittmore has control of the society and will be the determining factor in the choice of his successor.

In a report sent out by Secretary Houston an increase of 364 new members in the past nine months is shown over the same period in 1919.

The membership is about 34,000, a gain of about 14,000 over 1919.

GREET MONDAY MORNING WITH

Yes, it's being done in hundreds of homes in Appleton. Instead of the old unpleasant routine the Modern Housewife simply bundles up the family linen and turns it over to our driver.

That's the end of her wash-day worries!

We wash everything in water deliciously soft and in fleecy rinses of flaked soap. Then we iron the flat pieces—the bed linens, table cloths, etc. Other things like shirts, waists and children's clothes, we starch and make ready for ironing at home. Due to our drying methods, undergarments usually need no ironing.

In short, we do all the BACK-BREAKING WORK of Wash-Day.
